Norris Family Golden Anniversary

1981-82 is a special season for Bruce Norris and the Detroit Red Wings. It marks the 50th consecutive season in which the illustrious Norris family has maintained ownership of the Red Wings. No other NHL franchise can make such a claim.

The Norris era began in 1932 when the late James D. "Pop" Norris, an American industrialist, and former hockey player with the Winged Wheelers of the Montreal Athletic Association offered to buy the Detroit Falcons of the NHL. Norris purchased the club and renamed it "Red Wings", importing the name and team logo from his old Club in Canada.

The Wings won a league championship their first season under Norris' ownership, and two years later they captured both the NHL title and Stanley Cup.

The eldest of the Norris Children, James Dugan Norris, was actively involved with the Red Wings organization in the early years. He served as vice president and executive director from 1933-1952, leaving to join Arthur Wirtz in Chicago and the Black Hawks organization. (James Jr. helped build the Black Hawks into a Stanley Cup champion in 1961, as well as being actively involved in the International Boxing Club, before his death in 1966.)

When Mr. Norris Sr. passed away in 1952, daughter Marguerite, at age 25, succeeded him as president of the Red Wings and Olympia Stadium. The Wings had won the Stanley Cup the previous spring, and during Marguerite Norris Riker's three-year rein, the club went on to win the Cup two more times in 1954 and 1955.

Brother Bruce A. Norris took over ownership of the Wings in 1955. A dynamic individual in business and sports, Mr. Norris is entering his 26th season as president and owner of the Red Wings and has brought to the club a warmth for the game of hockey and business knowledge in the family tradition. Norris is respected as one of the most dedicated hockey men among the current NHL Govenors.

Through the past 49 seasons under the Norris family ownership, the most amazing string of titles in NHL history has been recorded and some of the greatest names in hockey have been associated with the Detroit Hockey Club.

More than 35 Red Wings are enshrined in the NHL Hall of Fame and more than 80 Red Wings have been voted to NHL All Star teams, while Detroit players have captured 40 individual league trophies.

1981-82 is the 50th season ownership of the Red Wings has remained in the Norris family. Today Marguerite Norris Riker remains the only woman to hold presidency of an NHL club, and the youngest in league history. James Norris, Sr., James Norris, Jr., and Bruce Norris are all members of the NHL Hockey Hall of Fame.

JIM SKINNER
Director of Hockey Operations

For Jim Skinner, his appointment as Director of Red Wings Hockey Operations during the spring of 1980, was just another milestone in his 38-year hockey career — all with the Detroit organization.

Although never playing in the NHL, in his younger days, Skinner played left defense for the Flin Flon Seniors when he was picked up by the late Jack Adams. A year on the farm with the Indianapolis Capitals of AHL made way for the position of player-captain-assistant coach (to Tom Ivan) for the Wings' franchise in Omaha of the U.S. League where he was teammates with Gordie Howe.

After retiring as a player in 1947, Skinner spent six years as coach of the Windsor Spitfires, and one year with the Hamilton Red Wings developing such players as Marcel Pronovost, Glenn Hall, Terry Sawchuck, Larry and Johnny Wilson, and Glen Skov. Jim is proud of the fact that 27 of his Windsor players turned pro while he was coach . . . and many of them went on to become coaches themselves including such names as Al Arbour, the Wilson brothers, Doug McKay, Red Eye Hay, and Marcel Pronovost.

In 1954 Skinner made it to the NHL and achieved the highlight of his career coaching the Red Wings to both the League championship and Stanley Cup his rookie year. He guided the Wings to another first-place finish, and then runner-up spot before retiring as coach during the 1957-58 season.

Over the years, Jim has held several positions within the Red Wings organization, assuming the duties as head scout, Director of Farm Club Operations, and in 1973 was appointed Assistant General Manager. All this wealth of management and hockey experience is being put to good use in his role as Director of Operations where he is now responsible for all player and hockey negotiations.

However, just "being there" doesn't make things happen. Jim is aware of the problems involved in producing a winning hockey team. He is confident that his long years of dedication and hard work will pay off, and he is looking forward to seeing the Red Wings return to a prominent spot in the National Hockey League.

His game plan? "Jack Adams is my idol. He was a very successful man, not only in the NHL, but in the world of sports. He was the best of hockey people. You can talk of the successes of any of the GM's today, but Jack Adams built this sport. I hope to follow some of Mr. Adams' philosophies and ideas. And if I can achieve even a little of his success, then I think we are going places."

DON GRAHAM
Assistant Director of Hockey Operations

In spring 1980, Jim Skinner appointed Don Graham as his Assistant Director of Operations.

Graham is not new to the Red Wings organization, having served as the Wings' Eastern Canada scout for 18 years (1954-72), but left Detroit in 1972 to become the chief scout for the Atlanta Flames. During his tenure in Atlanta, players such as Tom Lysiak, Guy Chouinard, Eric Vail, Brad Marsh, Dave Shand, Pat Riggin and the 1980 Olympic Gold Medal winning goaltender, Jim Craig, were drafted by Atlanta.

A former coach of minor hockey teams in the Toronto Hockey League, Graham added scouting to his activities in 1950 when he was appointed area scout for the Canadians. Four years later, in 1954, Graham joined the Detroit Staff as Ontario scout and named Director of Scouting for Eastern Canada in 1958.

ROBERT CAVALIERI
General Counsel

Bob Cavalieri arrived on the Olympia scene in 1978 as General Counsel and Administrative Director for the Olympia Stadium Corporation. Spring 1980, his duties were expanded to include General Counsel and Alternate NHL Governor for the Detroit Hockey Club. 33-year-old Cavalieri's primary duties with the Red Wings involve contract negotiations and to assist Vice President Louis Risi and Jim Skinner in the general hockey operations.

Upon graduation cum laude with a Juris Doctor Degree from the University of Michigan Law School in 1974, Bob entered the Detroit law firm of Dykehouse and Wise. He remained with the same firm until 1978 when he joined the Olympia Corporation.

WAYNE MAXNER
Coach

Wayne Maxner had coached only two months of the 1980-81 season with the Wings' AHL Adirondack club in Glens Falls, N.Y. when Jim Skinner summoned him to Detroit November 24, 1980 to coach the Red Wings.

38-year-old Maxner, native of Halifax, Nova Scotia, has been successful coaching at various levels of hockey, from seniors to major junior A. Before joining the Wings, Wayne coached the Windsor Spitfires of the Ontario Major Junior Hockey League for 5-1/2 years. He was hired by the Spits during their 1975-76 season with only 19 games remaining, and the club finished in sixth place that year. But with Maxner behind the bench, the Spits were in the playoffs the next four years, finishing fifth, third, second and first. During two of those five seasons, Wayne was selected to coach in the OMJHL all Star games, with his team winning both years.

Prior to his coaching experiences, Maxner saw parts of two seasons in the NHL with the Boston Bruins in 1964-65 and 1965-66. He had an excellent junior career, playing left wing with Niagara Falls of the OMJHL where he won scoring championships and was awarded the Red Tilson MVP Trophy and selected to the first all star team in 1962-63.

"I feel very confident with Wayne as coach," says Jim Skinner. "He's great with the young players. His personal attention and rapport with the youth are bound to bring positive results in the near future."

BILLY DEA
Assistant Coach and Special Assignments

Whether during training camp, practices, or scouting, on or off the ice, Billy Dea works with the same kind of intensity and determination that he had throughout his 19 years playing pro hockey. As a left winger, known for killing penalties and filling in when needed in valuable utility roles, Dea began his NHL career with the New York Rangers, came to Detroit in trade in 1955 and played one and one-half years with the Wings before going to Chicago in 1957-58. He returned to Detroit for two more seasons until he retired in 1971-72.

Always a team man, Billy jumped at the chance to again be involved in hockey at the NHL level, and in 1974 accepted the call as Assistant Coach under Alex Delvecchio.

This season Billy will continue to add his assistance to Coach Maxner, and be a source of counsel to the players. He is also looking forward to working closely with Jim Skinner and Don Graham on special assignments.

In Memoriam

The Red Wings are deeply saddened by the death of Dr. Milton Kosley, who passed away September 17, 1981. Dr. Kosley had been the Red Wings' team physician since 1954.

BUDD LYNCH
Director of Public Relations

For 25 years, Budd was the "voice of the Wings" on radio and TV. In 1975 he retired as broadcaster to assume the duties as Director of Public Relations for the Red Wings.

Once a broadcaster, always a broadcaster ... and last season, Budd returned to the microphone to call the action for 20 of the Wings' home games over ON-TV, subscription television.

A native of Windsor, Ontario, Budd started his broadcasting career in Canada in the 1940's. He worked for local stations in Windsor and Montreal, and for the Canadian Broadcasting Company in Hamilton until 1950 when he moved to Detroit to become broadcaster for the Red Wings.

Lynch is a past president of Detroit Sports Broadcasters Association, and has been involved in Detroit broadcasting through the years handling college football at University of Michigan and Michigan State University as well as working the Detroit Lions home games with the late Harry Wismer.

AL BLADE
Director of Marketing and Promotions

Al joined the Detroit organization in September 1979 as general manager for the Johnstown Red Wings in the Eastern Hockey League. When the Wings discontinued their EHL affiliation at the end of 1979-80 season, Blade moved to Detroit and quickly became involved in all phases of marketing and promotions for the Red Wings, coordinating the overall advertising for newspaper, radio and TV; overseeing television production for the Wings' games on WKBD TV (Channel 50); and working with various Detroit businesses on special hockey night promotions with the Wings.

Besides doing the publicity, promotions and marketing for the Red Wings, Al works closely with Budd Lynch on the myriad of functions connected with public relations. During the off season, Blade is involved in advertising and promoting season ticket sales.

Before coming to the Red Wings, Blade was a play-by-play announcer for the Port Huron Flags (IHL) 1968-72; and while broadcaster for the Saginaw Gears (IHL) 1972-79, had the added duties of Director of Sales and Public Relations. In addition to his responsibilities in Saginaw, Al's association with Wren Blair (then owner of Saginaw Gears, and president and general manager of Pittsburgh Penguins, NHL), gave him the opportunity to work in Pittsburgh as vice president of marketing for two seasons (1975-77).

Happiness is the Adirondack Red Wings! The Glens Falls-area team surpassed all expectations in only their second year of operation with a Calder Cup Championship. Detroit's AHL affiliate won all three playoff series four games to two, defeating Binghamton 4-2 in quarter-finals; Hershey (the 1979-80 Calder Cup Champs) 4-2 in semi-finals; and the Marine Mariners 4-2 in the finals to become the new 1981 AHL Champs.

For 1981-82, Ned Harkness will continue in the position as General Manager of the Adirondack Wings and Director of the Glens Falls Civic Center.

The new season also finds Doug McKay as Adirondack's new Director of Player Personnel and Coach. McKay succeeds last year's interim co-coaches J.P. LeBlanc and Tom Webster (who filled the coaching vacancy when Wayne Maxner was elevated to coach the parent Red Wings in Detroit November 24, 1980).

Prior to his appointment in Glens Falls, McKay served as general manager/coach of the Wings' IHL affiliate in Kalamazoo, Michigan for the past two seasons where his K-Wings won two regular season championships and one Turner Cup title. 51-year-old McKay, native of Hamilton Ontario, was named IHL Coach of the Year in 1979-80 and 1980-81. Prior to his professional coaching experiences, McKay coached several teams in amateur leagues including the Hamilton Red Wings, rolling up a total of six regular-season championships and three overall titles.

KALAMAZOO WINGS
MEMBER OF THE INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE

The 1981-82 seasons marks the eighth year the Kalamazoo Wings have been a member of the International Hockey League, and the eighth year the Detroit Red Wings have been affiliated with Kalamazoo in the capacity of its sole parent organization.

Kalamazoo has been very fortunate over their seven complete seasons in the league, having captured two divisional and league titles, and a pair of Turner Cups.

This season the K-Wings will have their fifth coach in the clubs history. With the elevation of GM/Coach Doug McKay to the Adirondack Red Wings of the American Hockey League, Detroit has appointed J.P. LeBlanc to replace McKay as its leader, with J.P. also taking on the dual responsibilities of GM/Coach.

McKay in his two year reign in the IHL with Kalamazoo, captured two divisional, two league titles, and one Turner Cup, as well as having been named Coach of the Year twice, but LeBlanc comes to Kalamazoo with credentials of his own, having co-coached the Adirondack Red Wings to its first-ever Calder Cup in the American Hockey League.

J.P. a veteran hockey player who has seen action in both the WHA and the NHL will have a great team to operate during the 1981-82 season, a team that has become a winning tradition since its inception.

"I have alot of respect for J.P. and his coaching abilities, he has demonstrated what he can do as co-coach for the past two seasons with Adirondack," commented Jim Skinner, Director of Hockey Operations for Detroit, "J.P. is familiar with the Detroit players having been in the organization himself for the past six years, this can only help, he will be an asset to both Kalamazoo and Detroit."
